FRESHMEN

"I hope that the freshmen class continues to bond and get closer over the next three years. I regret being so nervous at the beginning of the year. There's nothing to be afraid of! Get right into doing what you love, and don't hold back. High school allows you to focus more on what you are interested in, so take advantage of those opportunities," said Mary Frances Mahoney.

With deep focus, freshman Luca Opperman plays the cello during orchestra rehearsal in September. Opperman said, "I like it because it sounds like a depressed bumblebee. It sounds good."

Data collected from 49 students on a Google Form

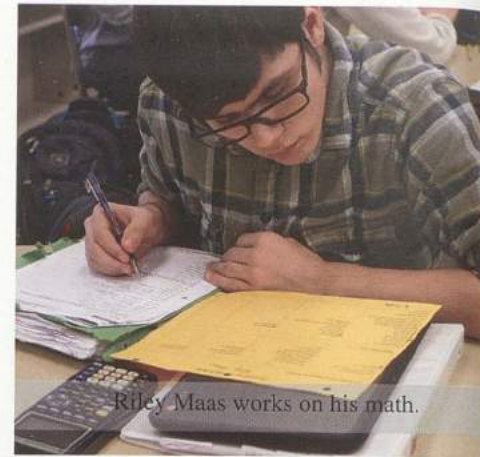

The social studies class spends time working on their presentations. Freshman Eriana Kellis and Lillianna Faulds work on their presentation together. Mr. Scott, newly teaching this AP World Class, has just opened up for freshmen enrollment. Kellis said, "I really like this class since we have class debates and discussions regularly. I also think this class should be open to freshmen because I think it gives us a new opportunity to be in a high level class."

Freshmen Robert Snider and Ana Kevorkian gather around the board to write down their objectives. Their project was on the expansive realm of Islam. Snider and Kevorkian enjoy working together as friends and as students to help each other to write better and think more deeply. AP World History just opened their doors on freshmen enrollment. Snider said, "I like the class. The pace of the class is fast which means you have to be able to keep up. This was a good class to take as a freshman, I hope they keep freshmen enrollment."

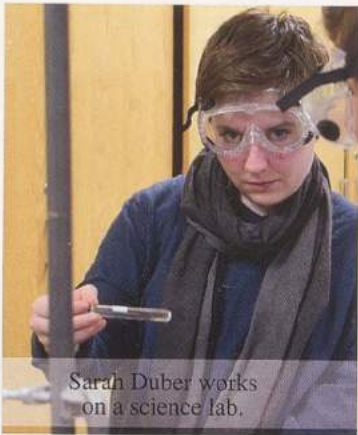

SOPHOMORES

"Sophomore year has been great, I had a great football season and school year and can't wait for two more," said sophomore Michael Lawrence.

Miranda Hamann, Alizee Duloisy, and Sophia Arjani work together to complete a chemistry packet. The group is often the first to finish assignments due to their hard work and ability to stay on task.

Contemplating the murder mystery on the island, senior Daniel Brown waits to deliver his next line during the dress rehearsal of And Then There Were None on Wednesday, November 16. Brown has been in various other theater productions throughout his high school career. "As for my favorite part of acting, it comes in two parts. On the surface, shows like this one create an extremely strong sense of camaraderie among the cast." Brown said. "However, the bigger piece, is that I can become anyone. I'm not just saying the lines or making the faces, I become the character. I feel the emotions and motivations of that individual. They are no longer a character on the page, but a real person that exists through me, and that is the key."

GO, GO, GO JOSEPH!

"It was a really high energy show that was fun to perform evry night," said junior Marley Vidmar.

Showing off his multicoloured coat, junior David Marquette dazzles the crowd as Joseph in Joseph and the Technicoloured Dreamcoat. Marquette, like many of the other participants of the show, enjoyed the family-like atmosphere of the production. "I miss this show (and this coat) more and more every day," Marquette said.

SPRINGFEST

"Springfest was a great way to wrap up high school. I had a ton of fun and though it was kinda sad, it's cool to know everyone is moving onto bigger things in the future," said senior Samantha Conti.

Surrounded by applause, seniors Katherine Malik, Sarah Bullen, Hailey Lowe, Ellen Szymkowicz, and Kate Weston celebrate the end of their final year at Chagrin. Springfest made the seniors be the center of attention in order to commemorate their last day of high school. Weston said, "Although emotions did get the best of me at some points, the rest of Springfest was so much fun and I will miss participating in it for years to come."

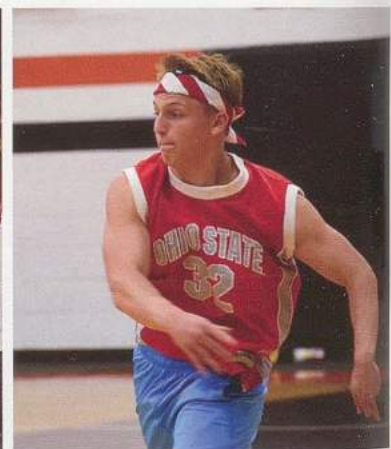

Leading the pack, Powderpuff coach and junior Christoph Sontich gets excited to beat the seniors.

Happy they are not getting hit, seniors Reed Flynt and William Bargar watch as underclassmen get pelted with water balloons.

Ready to move on, seniors William Westbrook and Kate Weston pass the keys of the school to juniors Christopher Currey and Eneh Turoczi.

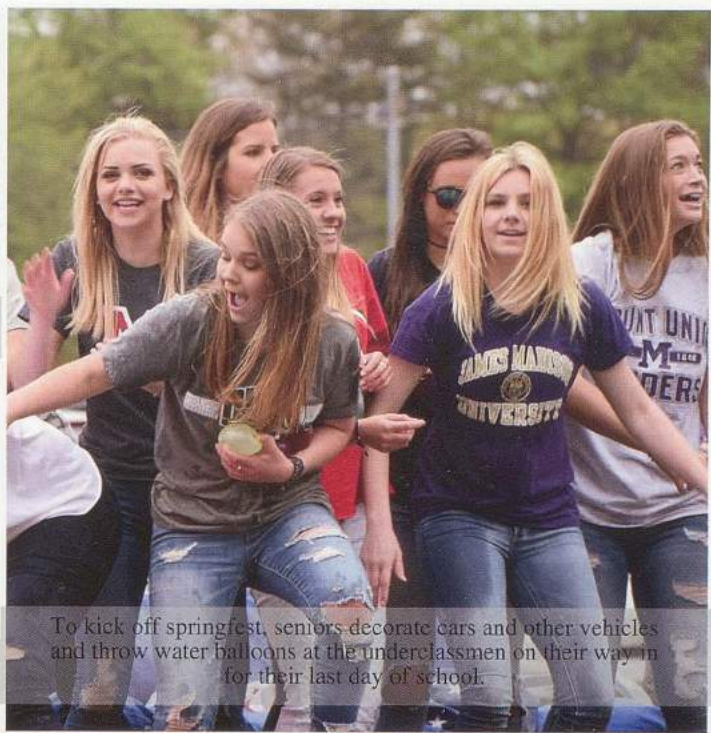

With determination, junior Sam Gazutis throws a dodgeball in hopes to hit one of his opponents.

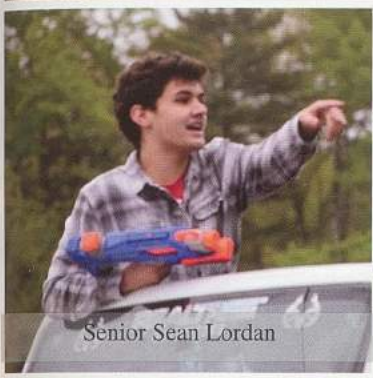

In the midst of the celebration, seniors Edith Doman, Courtney Den Braber, and Pearson Gottschalk march out with other students in their graduating class.

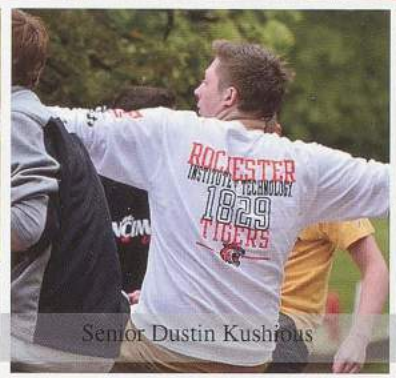

To kick off springfest, seniors decorate cars and other vehicles and throw water balloons at the underclassmen on their way in for their last day of school.

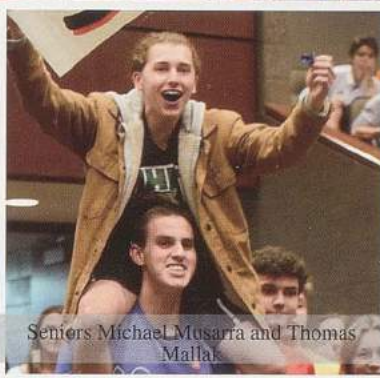

Showing their future school's colors, a group of senior boys get ready to attack underclassmen with water balloons before the springfest activities begin.

With tears in her eyes, junior Grace Lowe hugs senior Camille Concannon. The two girls played together on the lacrosse team for two years.

A group of senior boys throw water balloons from a truck. Senior Jack Dawson said, "It was really cool to finally be on the other side of the fun and be honored as seniors."

Beaming, senior Mia Hunt Magersupps strolls next to her fellow classmates at the clap out.

Class Wars

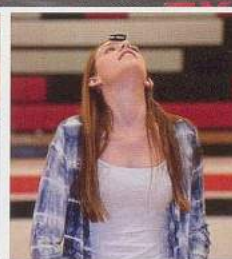

While the upperclassman enjoy the food trucks, the underclassman have class wars. These wars consist of fun contests like oreo stacking and no-handed-eating.

"I loved seeing everyone dressed up, and having a great time with one another," said junior Bethany Bacus.

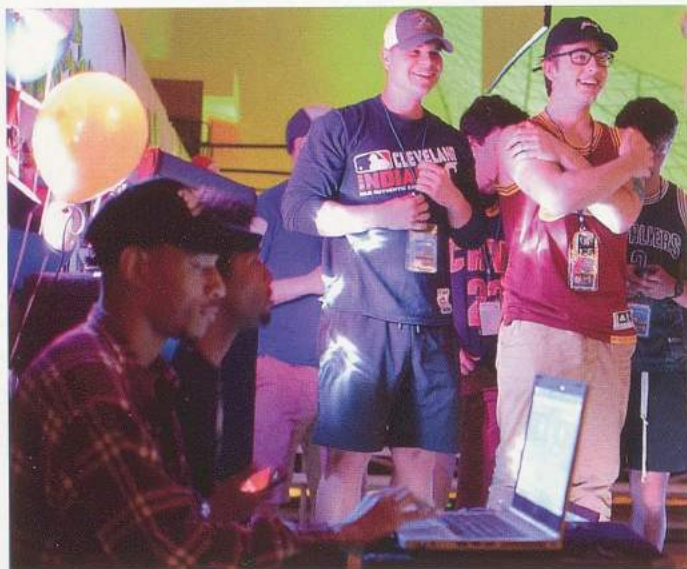

Bennet Eagle and Alexander Moore.

"I was so thrilled to have been chosen for prom queen, yet completely surprised," said senior Molly Carroll.

BELIEVELAND

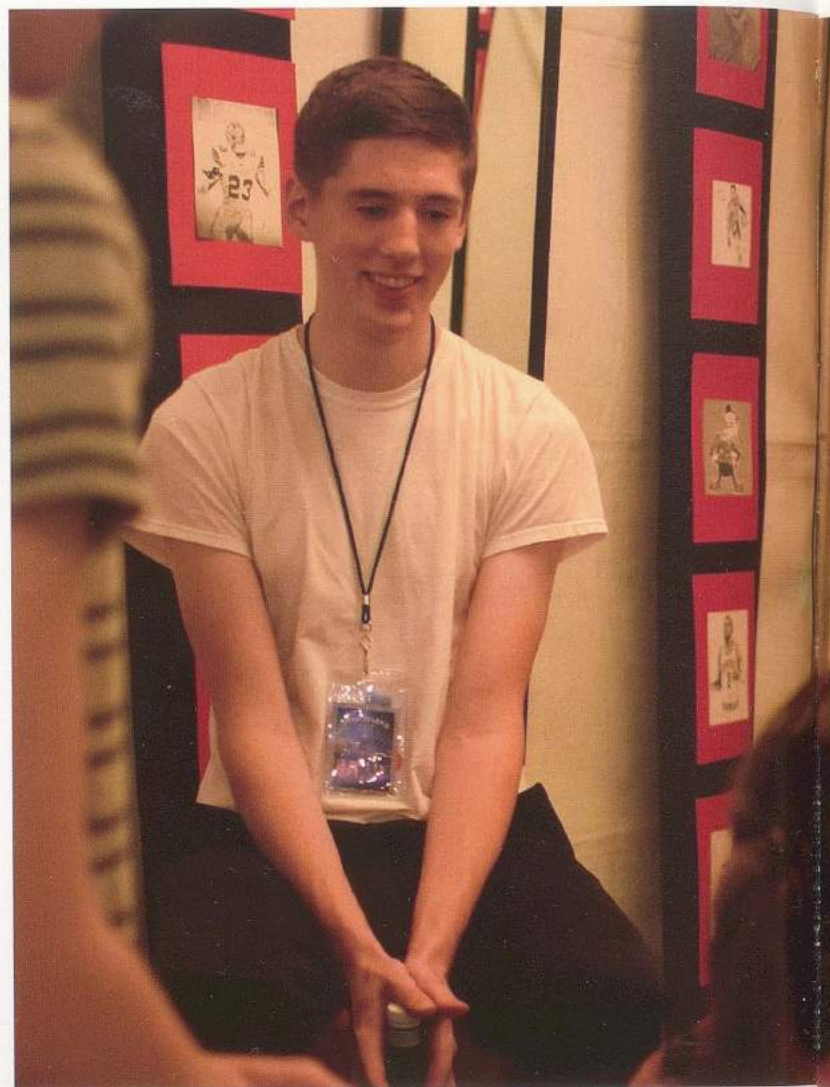

"Afterprom could not have gone better because I won a lot of chips playing blackjack" said Senior Johnny Wilson

Laughing with the crowd, seniors Matthew Rice and Schaffer Berg enjoy listening and watching others dance to the DJ's music. As seniors, this is Rice's and Berg's second opportunity to enjoy after prom.

Juniors Abigail Cloonan, Bronwyn Sheptak, and Nathan Kristoff laugh at the baby photos presented on the screen.

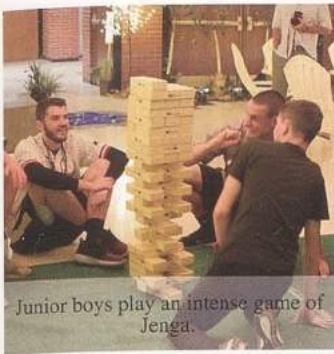

Students canvas paint photos of downtown Cleveland.

Waiting patiently, seniors Michael Kampman and Jonathan Rittmayer pose while getting their caricature drawn by an artist. The parents of junior students are responsible for setting up a creative and safe environment for after prom.

Juniors Masch Bartlett, Jack Barr, and Ryan McLain

Students attended after prom at the high school on May 14, 2017. The students gave a big thanks to the junior parents who worked to set up the activities modeled after the city of Cleveland.

Students arrived around midnight and were required to stay until four in the morning. They had many options of activities to participate in to keep them busy and awake including casino games, canvas painting, skee ball, massages, and various types of food.

Seniors and juniors made up a majority of the attendance and junior Zoe Vinci said, "I liked the variety of activities at after prom and I really enjoyed the canvas painting because it was relaxing. In addition, my favorite part was playing blackjack because my dad was the dealer."

Not only did Vinci enjoy playing blackjack, junior Emma Bottcher also enjoyed playing and she said, "My favorite part of after prom was playing blackjack because I was surprisingly good at it. I used my tickets to buy a gift card to Village Nail Spa!"

In addition to the popular activity blackjack, there was also a hypnotist that only seniors could participate in. Senior Chance Herbst was a participant and said, "I tried the hypnotist and when we got to dancing like ballerinas I realized how ridiculous it was and stopped. I also won the raffle and received a Keurig. I can't wait to bring it to college with me!"

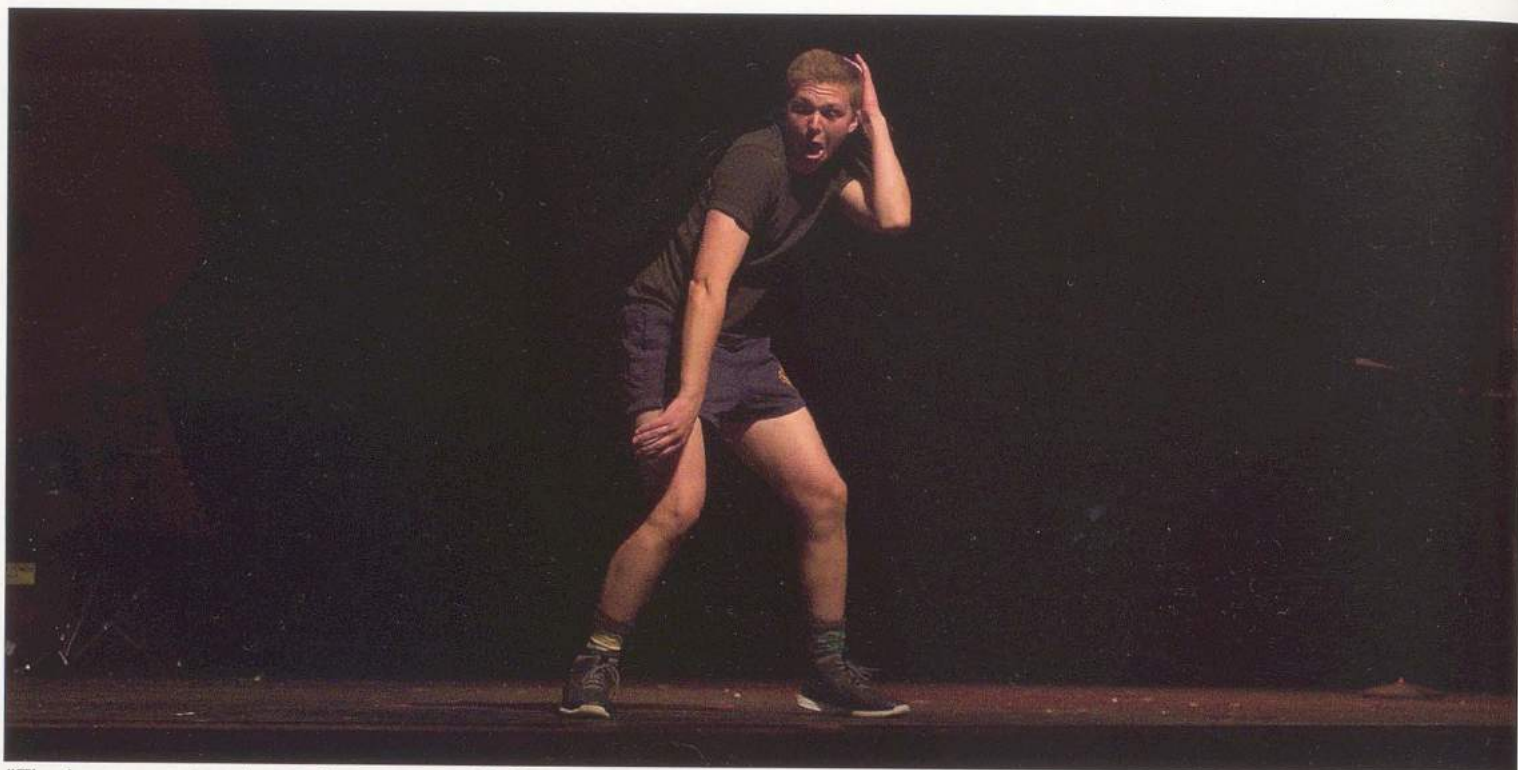

Seniors Madigan Copley and Annabella DeBernardo enjoy playing Ker Plunk at after prom.

WE'VE GOT TALENT

"I thought it was cool how many people showed up to OABR. It was interesting because it wasn't advertised very much, but it had a great outcome," said junior Marley Vidmar.

"The dance was not set in stone by any means. My fantasy league mates came up with the idea to do contemporary/pop culture dance moves to Fireflies. With that, they told some moves they wanted me to include such as the whip, the nae nae, and the dab. From there, I had more or less picked out some other moves to hit myself. However, there was never a set order or choreography. I had the chance to freestyle on stage once in the run through of the acts in the morning, but it was basically just me winging it. I think the fact that I've always enjoyed to dance and that I don't mind embarrassing myself too much helped out the routine. I will say the dougie it hit in the middle of the dance even surprised me though. At the end of the day I'm just glad the crowd enjoyed it and laughed a bit," said senior Patrick Emery.

Junior Nadia McGinnis and guest Gabe Laskey singing "No Outsiders," by Rend Collective.

Senior Bella McGreevy and Emily Owen performing "Chances," by Five for Fighting.

Freshman Joelle Kristoff singing "How to Save a Life," by The Fray

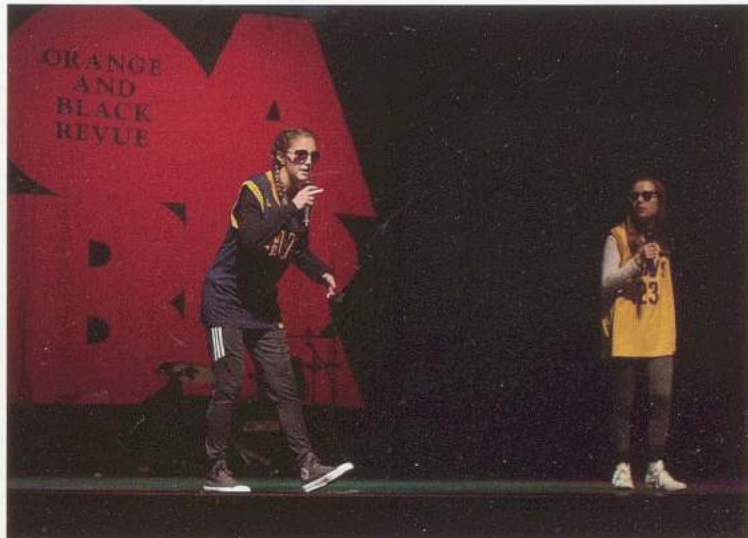

Junior Emilia and senior Anna Schneider performed a duet of a mashup of Stay by Rihanna and Animal

"Although it was my first time singing in front of people, I had a blast and am so glad I went for it", said Senior Bella McGreevy.

Junior Joey King performing stand up comedy. "Most of my material was cut because it was inappropriate," said King.

After throwing candy to the audience, seniors Milly Mason and Jacey Workum rap to "Rappers' Delight," by The Sugarhill gang.

Senior Emma Iammarino dancing to "Amazing Grace" which she dedicated to her grandmother who passed away two years ago.

Sophomores Abby and Alice Patton singing a duet of "Break Even," by The Script

Juniors Kara Lusting and Sabrina Boral accompanied by Mr. Hamid singing a duet to "Poison and Wine," by the Foo Fighters

Senior Sam Gottsegen drumming to "Everlong," by The Civil Wars

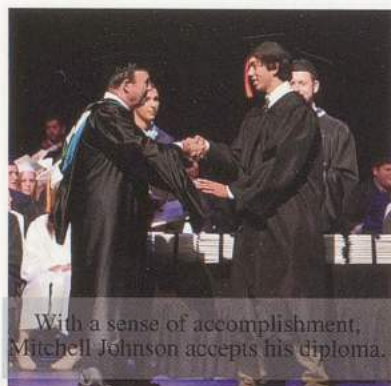

Senior Rem Weber MC's the night

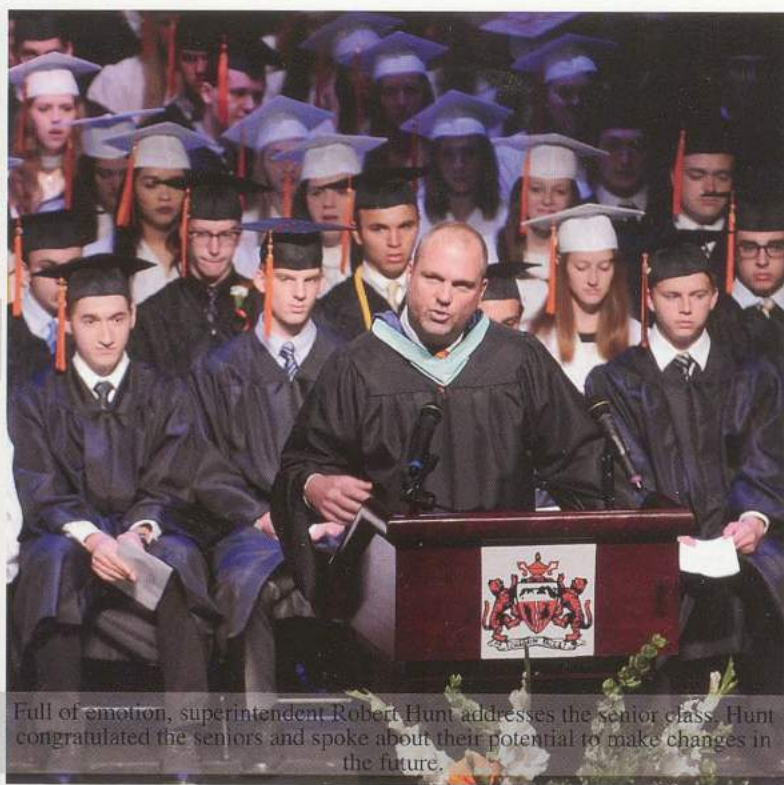

CON"GRAD"ULATIONS

"The ceremony was very special. It was a great way to say goodbye to Chagrin and hello to all of our future endeavors," said senior Claudia Bunker.

With a sense of accomplishment, Mitchell Johnson accepts his diploma.

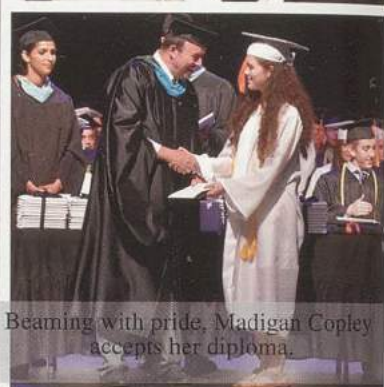

Full of emotion, superintendent Robert Hunt addresses the senior class. Hunt congratulated the seniors and spoke about their potential to make changes in the future.

Eagerly, Yumeno Young receives her diploma. Young also spoke at the ceremony about rocking her Crocs.

In a moment of happiness, Emily Porter reaches for her diploma.

Beaming with pride, Madigan Copley accepts her diploma.

Surrounded by applause, Greg Wilson accepts brother Grant Wilson's diploma. The audience gave a standing ovation in a touching moment while the graduating class showed their support.

Ready to move on to the next chapter, Halle McClintock says goodbye for one final time. McClintock's next chapter will begin at the University of Georgia, where she will further her track career. McClintock said, "The end of the four years came so quickly, but I know we all worked so hard for this moment!"

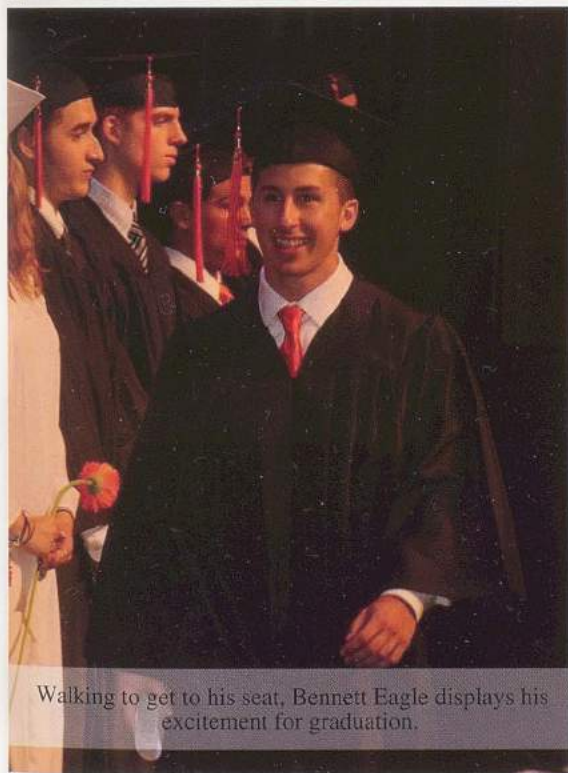

With a great deal of confidence, speaker William Westbrook addresses his fellow students.

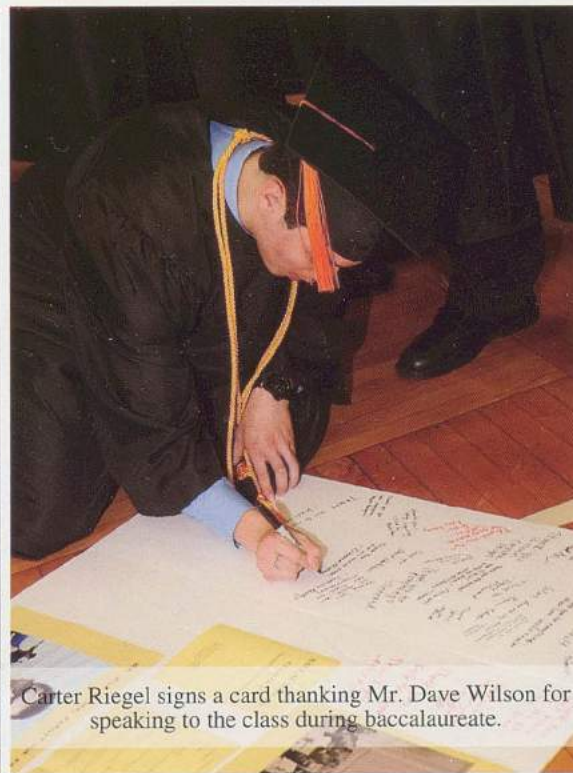

William Bartlett and Aiko Wessels

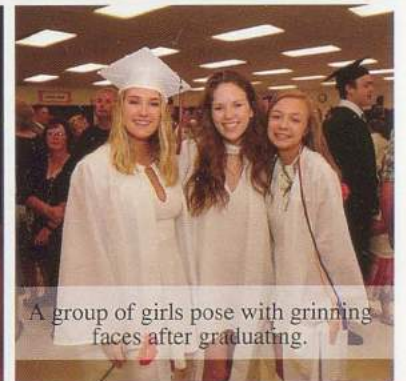

All smiles, graduate Molly Carroll receives her diploma.

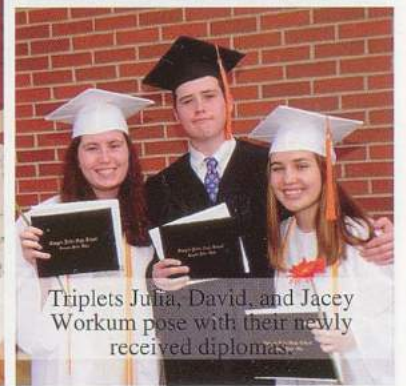

Walking to get to his seat, Bennett Eagle displays his excitement for graduation.

Carter Riegel signs a card thanking Mr. Dave Wilson for speaking to the class during baccalaureate.

Hope that you spend your days
but they all add up
And when that sun goes down
you raise your cup
I wish that I could witness all your joy and all your pain
but until that moment comes you'll say,
I DID IT ALL

Anna Kruszenski

Anna~

You are a bright young girl and the whole world is in front of you.

Take things as they come and you will weather well.

Go everywhere.

Be brave and strong and free.

Keep your eyes and ears and heart wide open.

Look for the goodness all around you.

And, when you feel small in the great big world, be still.

Think of your roots.

They are deep and true and will allow you to stretch far.

Go into the world and let your little light shine.

And always remember that you are loved, even by your brother!

~Mom, Dad and Stephen

We advertised throughout the year in various ways, specifically through technology, such as emailing and Twitter.

In July 2016, four editors attended a yearbook camp at Kenyon College to discuss the process for the year. At the camp, the editors decided on a theme and designed the cover for the book.

Theme: "We Are Chagrín."

Junior Mackenzie Shanklin received fourth place in the 2016 National Jostens Yearbook Photography Contest in the ReplayIt! category.

Special thank you to Mrs. Lisa Salyers and Mrs. Jean Kanzinger for capturing images of football, band, and OABR for us.

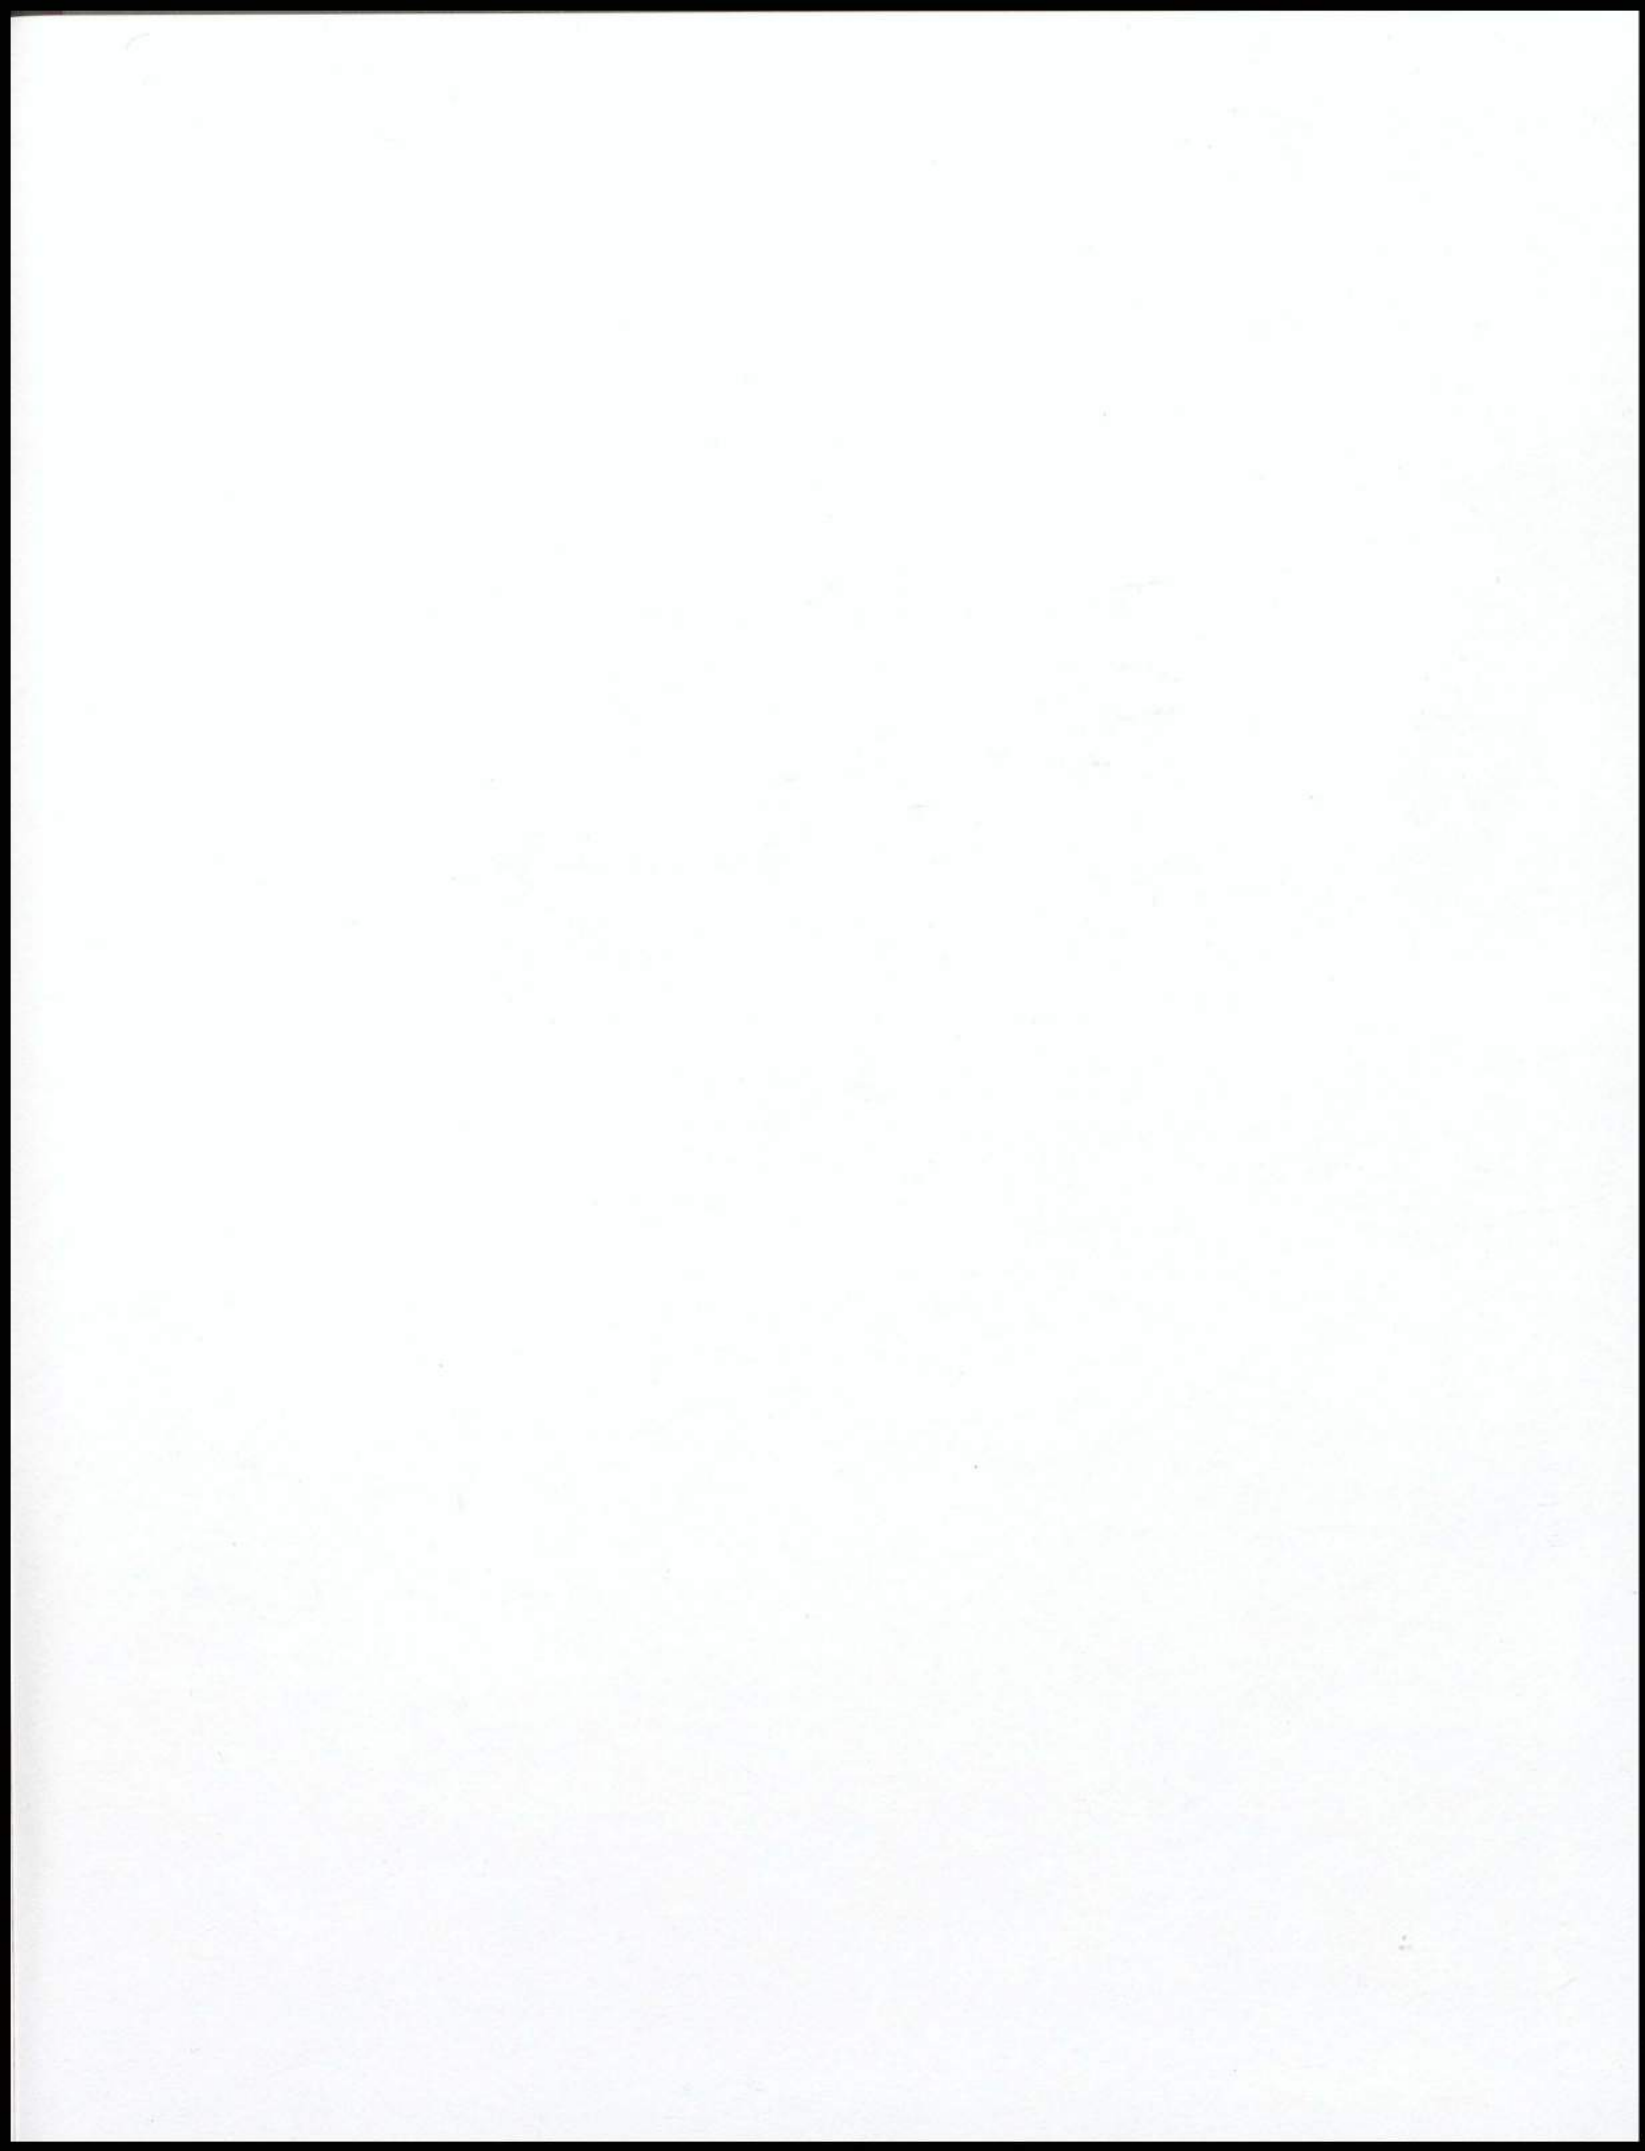

Adviser: Mrs. Angie Jameson

The rising 2017-2018 editors, Bella Beg, Emma Bottcher, Sarah Crane, Madeline Gregoire, Ava McFarlane, Allie Rodusky, Mackenzie Shanklin, and Olivia Tarr took the role of editing the spring section of the 2017 book.
